Position Description

The National Latin@ Network for Healthy Families and Communities (NLN) of Casa de Esperanza is seeking a Research and Evaluation Intern. The National Latin@ Network provides culturally responsive training and technical assistance to organizations across the country, conducts academic and community-based participatory research, and leads public policy initiatives that positively impact Latin@ families throughout the country and in Latin America. The National Latin@ Research Center on Family and Social Change is one of the cornerstones of this work conducting research and evaluation that prioritizes and elevates the voices and realities of Latin@ communities.

The NLN offers motivated and talented students ongoing opportunities to get involved with research and evaluation activities to better understand the experiences and meet the needs of Latin@ survivors and their families.

Responsibilities may include:

- Producing materials for service provider and practitioner audiences
- Supporting both qualitative and quantitative data collection and analyses
- Conducting literature reviews
- Participating in team meetings

*Note: Practicum or internship credit can be provided in accordance with your university/college

Qualifications

- Undergraduate or graduate student in social, behavioral or health sciences (e.g. Psychology, Social Work, Public Health, etc.)
- Microsoft package proficiency
- Must be motivated, organized, and possess good communication skills

Working Conditions

Casa de Esperanza strives for a fully inclusive work environment and does not discriminate on the basis of race, creed, color, sex, national origin, ancestry, religion, age, disability, sexual orientation, or marital status.

The above statements are not intended to encompass all functions and qualifications of this position; rather, they are offered to provide a general framework of the requirements of the position. Job incumbents may be required to perform other functions not specifically addressed in this job description.
